Foes Hit Power President Gets, 90-Day Credits

Charge Roosevelt Would Have Powers To Extend, Refuse Aid; Claim New Amendment Allows Loans To War Debt Defaulting Nations.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The ninety-day discretional credit clause of the administration's so-called cash and carry neutrality bill drew heavy fire from opposition forces today.

This clause permits the president, in his discretion, to give belligerent government purchasers of munitions in this country ninety days to pay their bills.

Opposition forces attacked the credit section on two fronts.

In the first place, said leaders of the forces battling the neutrality bill, the credit clause constitutes an amendment of the Johnson act prohibiting loans to war debt defaulting nations. New Deal leaders admitted this although Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) said there was a letter written by the Johnson act author, Senator Johnson (R., Cal.) in 1934, declaring that "normal" credits did not abrogate the act.

Secondly, Johnson and other opposition leaders said that under the discretionary section of the credit clause, the president would have power to extend such credits to one nation, and refuse them to another.

"The act gives the president unneutral powers, that's all," he said.

The credit clause appeared to opponents of the neutrality legislation the most vulnerable point to attack, and they will take full opportunity of this when debate starts on the bill next week.

The new bill's provision repealing the arms embargo section of present neutrality law continued the main issue over which opposition forces were battling, but they decided a strategic piecemeal attack centering on the credit clause would best help their cause.

Johnson was particularly vehe-

REPORTS VARY

Hospital Says Ashbrook Had 'Very Slight Stroke.'

News dispatches from Washington, D. C., today on the condition of Congressman William A. Ashbrook, representative from this 17th district, who was taken to Naval hospital there yesterday, varied as to the cause of his illness.

The Associated Press reported that Captain Willard J. Riddick of the Naval Medical center, said that the 72-year-old congressman was receiving treatment for "a very slight stroke."

At Ashbrook's office however, his secretary, Dora L. Chaney, and his aide, Paul Ashbrook, denied that the veteran member of the House had a stroke. They insisted that he was in the hospital merely for a rest.

Capt. Riddick informed newspaper men that Ashbrook was getting along very well, but would remain in the hospital for two or three weeks for a rest.

FIRE HITS SHIP

Former Liner Majestic Aground With Blaze Unchecked.

LONDON — (INS) — The former Cunard liner Majestic, now a naval training vessel, was believed today to have been seriously damaged by a fire which broke out yesterday.

Authorities did not reveal the location of the vessel, but said she had been nosed into a mudbank, where the flames were burning themselves out.

FARMERS HAPPY, IT RAINS, RAINS

Request Granted as Downpour Definitely Ends Drought, Floods Parched Fields.

Farmers wished for rain, hoped for rain, and they got plenty of it today.

Definitely ending a drought which has damaged crops and pastures, nearly two inches of rain had fallen in the Mansfield area at noon today.

Pastures and wheat fields that were parched and dusty a few days ago were flooded, and rural wells and cisterns were filled.

Rainfall here since yesterday afternoon measured 1.73 inches and 1.55 inches fell from 9 p. m. yesterday to 9 a. m. today.

Most of Ohio received showers during the night and the average for the state was .74 of an inch. The heaviest reported was 1.65 inches at Marion.

The rain brought a 34-degree drop in temperature from 84 yesterday afternoon to 50 at noon today and frost was forecast for tonight. Skies will clear late today and Sunday will be fair and warmer, the forecast said.

The rain was expected to revive pastures and put the soil in ideal condition for wheat sowing which is already under way.

BULLETIN

One person was dead and four others were injured in an auto accident in East Mansfield early this afternoon when two cars met in a head-on collision.

Mrs. Ethel Zehner Goon, 26, of 29½ East Arch street, was instantly killed, and her husband, Wilber O. Goon, and a small daughter were seriously injured.

Two other men, one tentatively identified as Hugh Hootman of Jeromesville, and the other still identified, were in the second car.

The machines collided when Hootman's auto, heading west, swerved to avoid a machine that pulled out of a sideroad in front of it and crashed into a third car operated by Goon going east.

BRITAIN AND TURKEY DRAFT NEW AID PACT

Turkish Military Mission on Way to London For Signing Measure Aiding Allies.

ACTS AS 'SAFEGUARD'

Completion of Agreement Seen Factor Pressing Italy to Remain Neutral.

By REUEL MOORE
(By United Press)

LONDON — Great Britain and Turkey have completed the draft of a definite pact of mutual assistance and a Turkish military mission is on its way to London to negotiate with the British government, it was understood today.

The Turkish embassy announced the impending arrival of the mission, under Gen. Kiazim Orbay, who on a similar mission during the summer, arranged for the purchase of British war materials.

It was understood that the British-Turkish pact would be signed upon the return of Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu from Moscow, where he is conducting negotiations with the Russian government.

The British-Turkish pact will contain a safeguarding clause stipulating that, under it, Turkey will never be required to take hostile attitude against Russia, it was asserted here.

Britons looked to the pact as another factor in assuring Italian neutrality.

The political and military clauses of the British-Turkish treaty had been completed some time ago, but economic clauses caused difficulty.

The Turkish government was anxious because of the rapid overrunning of Poland by Germany, and wanted Britain and France to provide it at once with large quantities of tanks, airplanes and artillery, and also to support the Turkish currency.

Barriers Lifting.

These difficulties had now been liquidated, it was believed, and Gen. Orbay, on his arrival here, would be able to make arms deals

KUHN IN TOMBS

Fails to Raise Bond After It's Boosted to $50,000.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American bund, remained in the Tombs today as attorneys sought to have his bail reduced from $50,000 to some lower figure.

Kuhn, originally free on $5,000 bond on a charge of embezzling $14,548.59 from the bund's funds, was brought into court yesterday by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and his bail raised to $50,000.

Dewey asked for the higher bond on the contention that he had information that Kuhn was planning to evade the jurisdiction of the New York courts rather than face trial on the embezzlement charge.

INTEREST CUT

HOLC Reduces Charges on Sales From 5 to 4½ Per Cent.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — The Home Owners' Loan Corporation announced today interest on contracts for sale of its homes in Ohio would be reduced to 4½ per cent starting Monday. The present rate is 5 per cent.

Henry G. Brunner, state HOLC manager, predicted that the reduction would stimulate sales which totaled 4,662, amounting to $18,720,000 in Ohio on Sept. 1.

Moscicki's Resignation Paves Way for Formation of New Polish Regime to Be Located Abroad.

(By United Press)

BUCHAREST—Ignace Moscicki resigned today as president of Poland, leaving his power in the hands of Wladyslav Raczkiewicz, former leader of Pomerania, the United Press learned.

Sen. August Zaleski, it was learned, probably will be named foreign minister to succeed Josef Beck.

Moscicki's decision, the United Press learned, will be communicated this evening to King Carol of Rumania, whose country has been host for the past two weeks to most of Poland's refugee government as well as to civilian and military refugees.

The change in the composition of the Polish government, it was understood, would be communicated to King Carol by Count Roger Raczynski, Polish ambassador to Rumania.

Moscicki's resignation makes possible the formation of a new government abroad, which is expected at all times to be in close touch with France and England.

With Moscicki's resignation, it was believed that members of the refugee government would be allowed to leave Rumania as private citizens.

Moves for the formation of a new Polish government began soon after Moscicki and his colleagues fled Poland and when it became apparent that probably they would not be able to leave Rumania.

A communique issued after the cabinet meeting said that additional revenues will be raised by an ordinary tax on capital and a general income tax.

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—The Swedish minister to Berlin today lodged a "serious protest" with the German government against the sinking of the Swedish steamer Nyland. The Nyland, a Swedish freighter bound for Antwerp with a cargo of ore, was torpedoed in the North sea by a German submarine.

FAIL TO FIND WAY TO TRIM INDIGENT BILLS

City Officials, Hospital Staff Confer 2 Hours But Agree It Should Be Done.

LONG HOSPITAL STAYS HIT

Health Department Urged to Assume Responsibility of Indigent Patients.

City officials and General hospital staff physicians conferred for two hours yesterday afternoon on the hospitalization of indigents, agreed that the city's bills should be reduced, but got nowhere on just how the reduction could be made.

After a discussion that on occasions drew remarks of "lack of co-operation" from city officials, the group adjourned and council's finance committee agreed to discuss the problem itself on recommendations from Mayor Claude M Hunter. He urged, however, that the delay "not be long."

Cost $22,000 Last Year.

The meeting was held in the office of Mayor Hunter for the purpose of discussing a way to trim the city's cost of hospitalizing indigent patients, an item that last year cost the city $17,000 in addition to $5,000 paid staff physicians for medical and surgical services.

When city officials charged they could not get the cooperation of staff physicians in releasing patients in order that the hospital stays be reduced to a minimum, the doctors pointed out that no one man was responsible.

They suggested a centralized responsibility and recommended that the health department assume the responsibililty since it was familiar with conditions in the home.

Says Some Not Indigent.

Dr. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said that the city

HOLDS 4-1 LEAD

Embargo Supporters Remain Ahead In Test Poll.

With the end of the first week of The News-Journal's poll on the neutrality policy of the United States, 846 citizens have expressed their opinions, showing a preference of more than 4 to 1 for the present neutrality law as against the proposed cash-and-carry plan.

Today's vote, however, showed a higher percentage of persons favoring the president's plan to lift the embargo on arms than any other one day. The vote was 52 persons for the present law, and 20 for the president's plan.

The total vote now stands at 846, with 660 favoring a strict embargo on arms and munitions, and 186 for the cash-and-carry plan.

Today's ballot is on page 12 of The News-Journal. If you haven't already voted, you may do so by marking it and mailing or sending it to the Neutrality editor of The News-Journal.

Report Hitler Maps Important Military Plans

Observers See Ciano's Trip To Berlin Carrying Out Agreement of Axis To Consult In Event of New Policies; Reich To Convene Next Week.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler today summoned his axis partner, Italy, to emergency consultation in Berlin, convened his reichstag to hear an important government declaration next week and for 50 minutes today conferred at his chancellery with his cabinet, army general staff, leading admirals and high ranking generals.

Belief that Hitler planned events of grave and perhaps spectacular importance was supported by announcement simultaneously in Rome and Berlin that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, Premier Benito Mussolini's son-in-law, would arrive in Berlin tomorrow by invitation of the reich government.

A German foreign office spokesman said that Ciano's visit would fall within the framework of the Rome-Berlin axis—a military alliance providing for consultation between Italy and Germany before new military adventures by either power.

Observers believed that Ciano would see both Hitler and German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop—perhaps to discuss peace proposals, perhaps to discuss war on a greater scale than ever before if Britain and France refuse peace on the basis of Poland's partition.

Italy thus far has remained neutral in the European war—on the basis of Hitler's statement to Mussolini that Germany did not require Italian military aid. That, however, was four weeks ago.

Considerable significance was attached to Hitler's conferences.

He called all members of the cabinet to the chancellery at 4 p. m. Later some members of the general staff were called into consultation.

Today's activity and the call for the reichstag session followed long conferences last night between

MOSCOW: No Red-Nazi Pact Reached, Observers Believe

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW—Despite the threat of Russo-German "consultation" if the Anglo-French allies fail to end their war against the reich, Moscow observers expressed the opinion today that no secret Russo-German military alliance has been concluded.

If this is true, it was stated, German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop's recent visit to Moscow may have failed to achieve its chief purpose—conclusion of a full military pact.

Under this line of reasoning, informed quarters in Moscow pointed out, it is possible that refusal of the allies to end the war and consider the Russo-German "peace ultimatum" might leave Germany almost completely isolated.

Von Ribbentrop returned to Berlin yesterday with Soviet-German pacts establishing a common frontier between the two powers through Polish territory and stipulating trade expansion between Germany and Russia.

But informed quarters consid-

PARIS: French Bolster Lines To Thwart Expected Nazi Drive

BULLETIN

PARIS—(UP)—The newspaper Paris Soir reported from Luxembourg today that Belgian troops stationed on the French frontier have left their positions and are "being urgently moved to northern Belgium, near Holland."

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—The French government, apparently turning a cold shoulder to German-Soviet Russian peace gestures, intensified preparations today to meet any threat of a big scale Nazi offensive to back up the peace offer.

The French general staff reported the night was "without incident," but said patrols were active throughout the region east of the Saar river on the northern half of the western front. Apparently the zone referred to is south of Saarbruecken.

Premier Daladier and military officials held a "strategic conference" this morning to review the French advance between the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

Among those attending were Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of French-British forces, Admiral Jean Darlan commander-in-chief of the French navy, Gen. Alphonse Georges, representing the air force, and Gen. Jules Decap, head of the premiers "military cabinet."

Immediately after the meeting of defense leaders, Daladier conferred for 45 minutes with President Albert Lebrun at Elysee palace.

Informed quarters reported aerial forces of both sides continued frequent flights with the Germans losing two planes and the French one in scattered combats yesterday.

While French troops sought to strengthen positions gained in a month by fighting, both government and press indicated France never would accept a basis for peace the German-Soviet pact partitioning Poland.

In a radio address last night, Jean Giraudoux, commissioner general of information, accused Germany and Russia of "blackmail" and declared they were trying to force an "eastern peace" upon Europe.

"Perhaps Hitler will propose to us," Giraudoux said "conditions that we deny not only our treaties but our tastes, our convictions, our religions and our liberties."

RETURN OF WAR LIST TO FAVOR SPURS PRICES

Leaders Add Fractions to Five Points In Active Mart; Transfers Hit 800,000.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Buyers pushed shares likely to benefit from a prolonged European conflict higher in today's stock market and leaders added fractions to 5 points or more.

Activity was moderate at the opening and continued at a fair rate thereafter. At the finish prices were near the best of the day. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

Return of the "war infants" to favor after their temporary eclipse yesterday was based largely on the belief Prime Minister Chamberlain in the British house of commons Monday would announce the rejection by Britain and France of the Russo-German peace move.

Domestic news items seemed to be ignored as traders weighed the dispatches from abroad.

Some of them, however, were considered constructive. Senator Wheeler, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, declared in Boston he would attempt to bring the railroad reorganization bill before congress at the special session and to get a vote on it as soon as possible.

HITLER CALLS ITALIAN ENVOY

Ciano To Visit Berlin as Observers See Fuehrer Draft New Policy.

Hitler and his foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, who had just returned from Moscow where he negotiated a new Russo-German treaty and with Soviet Foreign Commissar V. Molotov issued a declaration calling for peace on the basis of the partition of Poland.

In his consultations today, it was believed, Hitler was preparing a declaration to the reichstag in the event that France and Britain reject Russo-German peace overtures.

Hitler convened the reichstag for a dramatic session the day he ordered the German armies to advance into Poland—Sept. 1.

It was understood here that should France and Britain persist in rejecting peace on the basis of Poland's partition Hitler would leave for the western front to take personal command of his armies after making a declaration to the reichstag.

Nazis 'Invite' Italian Envoy to Parley.

LONDON — (INS) — Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy will leave Rome for Berlin this evening "at the invitation of the German government" it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Paris.

Ciano Leaves for Berlin Tonight.

ROME— (INS) — Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, will leave for Berlin at 1 p. m. it was reported by the Italian radio today.

Observers immediately linked the report of Ciano's projected visit with the fact that German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop conferred with Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to Moscow, immediately after concluding the Russo-German agreements.

It was also considered significant that the Reichstag was summoned today to meet next week to hear a declaration by the German government.

Some neutral observers thought that the visit might be in connection with repeated reports that Premier Mussolini has been chosen by Germany and Soviet Russia as the medium of a peace offer to the allies.

It was regarded as logical that Ciano would be present in Berlin personally under such circumstances to prepare the way for an approach to Great Britain and France for the cessation of further hostilities now that Poland has been partitioned.

In his last published address, delivered to members of the Fascist Hierarchy of Bologna in Rome, Mussolini told the people of Italy to hold themselves in readiness for announcement of some. "historic decision."

BOWLING ALLEY BOMBED

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Three days before it was to have opened, a west side bowling alley lay in partial wreckage today after a $1,000 explosion which police said was caused by a dynamite bomb. Henry Barthelman, 57, the owner, said he could give no motive for the bombing.

2-WAY ATTACK ON NEUTRALITY

Critics Strike at Roosevelt Powers, 90-Day Credit Clause as Debate Nears.

ment over the ninety day credit clause.

"Why," he said, "the administration spokesmen emphasized over and over that what they wanted was a real cash and carry law. 'Cash on the barrel-head.' They said. Now they have come in here with a bill that isn't cash at all."

Johnson was reminded that in international finance 90 days was frequently considered "normal."

"Yes," he replied, "but these aren't normal times. This ninety day credit clause is in my opinion a move to come in the back door and do away with the Johnson credits act."

MINE OPERATOR KILLED

Bigelow Pension Backers, Opponents Swing Into Action

CINCINNATIAN EXPLAINS PLAN AT CIO MEET

Opponents Claim Passage of Amendment Would Cost Ohio U. S. Pensions.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Herbert S. Bigelow, former Cincinnati congressman, was to explain his "$50 at 60" pension plan which will be voted on at the November election, to members of Ohio's CIO at their second annual convention today.

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey came in for some mention at yesterday's session when the CIO took credit for the defeat of "that enemy of labor."

But, said Secretary-Treasurer Ted F. Silvey, in a report of the last 18 months' activities, labor has fared no better during 1939 under the Republican administration of Governor Bricker.

"Organized labor," Silvey said, "was kicked in the teeth on all fronts. This happened not only to the CIO but to the A. F. of L. and the railroad brotherhoods as well.

"The only difference between our organization and the two other labor groups was that we got ours in public, while some of the others, who had indorsed Governor Bricker, had the dubious privilege of getting their kick in the privacy of the Republican chambers."

Silvey declared that labor "did not receive one piece of legislation" at the last session of the legislature and that this part was the "bluest" of his report.

SEE LOSS OR U. S. PENSIONS

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Adoption of the Bigelow old age pension amendment to the constitution at the Nov. 7 election, the Ohio emergency committee contended today, would deprive Ohio of federal aid for subsidies to the aged.

"This is due," said the committee in its handbook for speakers opposing the Bigelow amendment, "to a provision (in the Federal Social Security law) requiring that every state pay pensions on the basis of 'need,' a principle not contained in the Bigelow proposal."

The federal government contributes about $16,000,000 annually for the present Ohio pension system.

The committee also said in its handbook that "ambiguities" in the language "might lead to a great deal of unfairness," attacking the amendment provision for payments to persons "who are retired from gainful occupation as wage earners."

"Farmers, small store owners and professional people have not been wage earners," the committee concluded. "Would the court exclude them from benefits? Who knows? The language seems to exclude them."

New Collection of Bromfield Stories In Single Volume

First copies of a new collection of Louis Bromfield stories published by Harper and Brothers have been received by Mansfield book stores.

Entitled "It Takes All Kinds," the volume contains three novels, two novelettes and four short stories, none of which has ever been published in book form in America before.

The first novel is "McLeod's Folly" which appeared in Cosmopolitan magazine as "You Get What You Give" and is the story of a woman newspaper publisher waging a battle against the vice rackets of her town.

The story "Better Than Life" was originally published as "And It All Came True." Most of the stories in the book have been published as serials or short stories in Cosmopolitan magazine.

One of the most interesting is "Bitter Lotus" which takes three characters from Bromfield's current novel "The Rains Came," gives them different names and lets them work out their own destiny. It has nothing to do with the novel except to use the major characters under different circumstances.

The other stories in the volume are "The Hand of God," "New York Legend," "The Girl Who Knew Everybody," "Good Time Bessie," "That Which Never Returns" and "Aunt Flora."

Up and Down THE STREET

For the first time in 15 years, an Akebia evergreen vine at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stephens, 365 Marion avenue, produced pods the other day. This is the first time the vine has blossomed since Mrs. Stephens received it from the Orient. While a rare plant in this country, it is common in Japan and China. The vine hangs from the porch of the home.

Mansfield wore a halo last night. The city's lights, reflected on a low-hanging fog blanket, formed a deep red circle over the downtown section which presented an unusual picture from outlying districts. The blanket of mist enveloped the tops of church steeples and tall buildings, almost hiding them, while the lower atmosphere was comparatively clear.

The Red Cross was back in "war stride" today with the issuance of a call for wool or the money to buy wool for its volunteer knitters. Mrs. John Pierce, who is in charge of obtaining materials, made an appeal today for both sweater and sox wool and it may be in wine, maroon, navy or dark oxford gray. The "knitting brigade" will start as soon as supplies arrive. They will knit for the wounded soldiers of European nations. Contributors of material for sweaters or sox are asked to call the Red Cross, Canal 1494.

Police had two pieces of valuable medical equipment on their hands today and they not only didn't know what to do with it but they couldn't pronounce it. Recovered after a transient said he had taken it from a parked car, the equipment was identified as a stethoscope and a combination ophthalmascope and oloscope. Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, did the identifying. The transient couldn't remember what the looted car looked like, so the officers are still searching for the owner.

COMPLIES WITH COURT ORDER

Black Turns Over Long-Sought Records of Father's Estate At Taking of Deposition.

Complying with an appeals court order, Robert B. Black, Ohio Brass company director and oldest son of the late Frank B. Black, its founder, yesterday turned records of his father's estate over to Atty. H. M. Rust, a notary, as evidence in a mandamus suit against the county auditor and treasurer.

Counsel for Black had considered fighting the appeals court order in the Ohio supreme court, but decided to comply with the ruling after a conference yesterday afternoon.

The contempt charge filed against Black Sept. 20 by Rust who was taking depositions in the mandamus action, was dismissed late yesterday after the books were submitted by Black.

Black, an executor of his father's estate, had protested that the records were too personal to be turned over to Rust and attorneys for Michael Hallabrin, plaintiff in the mandamus suit.

The Fifth district appeals court ruled at Canton Wednesday that Black had to present the books as evidence or go to jail for contempt. He had been free under $500 bond since the contempt citation.

The mandamus action, which would require the auditor and treasurer to assess and collect personal taxes alleged due on the Black estate, will be heard in Canton Thursday by the appeals court.

AUTHOR SEES RETURN TO SOIL AS KEY TO NATION'S ECONOMICS

Novelist Louis Bromfield, who came back to Richland county to do some farming, along with his writing told the Richland County Bar association yesterday that "we must get back to the soil if we are to make our economic system hold up."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the association at the Mansfield Leland hotel, Bromfield said the nation's economic condition will improve when the people turn to the soil and work to produce a living and a fair profit.

"The mid-west farmer can't hope to compete with the big western grower in the production of corn and wheat, but he can get a fair living from his land if he works and uses good management," the author said.

"In France," he said, "there are seven million members of garden and horticulture clubs who have gardens and small farms on which they produce virtually all the food they use. They work in the soil for the pleasure they find as well as for the living they get from it, and it gives them a different economic viewpoint."

Bromfield said he is already producing 60 per cent of the food his family uses on his farm in southern Richland county and hopes to produce 95 per cent of it before long.

Turning to the European war scene, he said Stalin of Russia is the man to watch, for he holds the key to Europe's future.

Atty. Lydon Beam, chairman of the bar association program committee, introduced Bromfield. Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, president of the association, presided.

Approximately 45 Mansfield and Shelby attorneys and judges, the largest group to attend a bar dinner in months, heard Bromfield.

Other bids included one for $4,195 submitted by R. O. Darling, Mansfield; a proposal of $5,500 submitted by Roger Au, Mansfield, and another for $7,120, turned in by the Testa Trucking company, Cleveland.

The award was made at a special meeting of the board yesterday afternoon.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Then this loud masculine voice boomed 'Will you marry me?' and I said 'Certainly' but I found out later it was just the radio."

9-MONTH TOTAL ALMOST DOUBLE 1938 FIGURES

178 Homes Started to Date as Compared with 105 Built In Entire Last Year.

Enjoying one of the greatest building years in history, Mansfield building valuations today soared to $1,951,444 for the first nine months of this year, almost double the valuation of $1,114,000 for entire 1938.

A major factor in the construction boom is a sustained large scale residential construction program that has resulted in 178 new homes either built or now being erected in the city this year.

Valuations in new home construction so far in 1939 total $857,750, surpassing those of the 12-month period for 1938 by more than $100,000. During 1938, 105 new homes were constructed at an estimated valuation of $749,850.

Total cost of all building projects, including remodeling, alterations, additions, residential, business and industrial construction so far this year is $1,161,194 more than the $790,250 recorded for the same 9-month period last year.

September Figures Soar.

September building was estimated at $207,505, an increase of $86,000 over August and more than $100,000 above the figures listed for September of last year, building permit records show.

This month's increase was attributed largely to a permit issued to Westinghouse for the construction of a $40,000 overhead bridge and to the Tappan Stove company for a $20,000 addition to its plant.

Although the Westinghouse project represents an expenditure of $135,000 and the Tappan project a total of $100,000, the amounts listed with the city are only for the building construction and do not include the equipment to be installed. New equipment and property rights will cost Westinghouse $95,000 while Tappan estimates the cost of enameling furnaces which it will install in the addition at $80,000.

Seventeen residential permits were issued during the month as compared with 14 in August. Value of the new homes for which the permits were issued totaled $86,300 as against $74,200 in August.

TAX DATE SET

Collection of Personal Taxes Gets Under Way Oct. 15.

Collection of personal taxes for the last half of the year will begin Oct. 15, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

Statements will be mailed to property owners about the time the collection starts and additional clerks will be on duty at the courthouse to aid property owners in making out their tax returns.

Total personal tax receipts this year are expected to exceed $325,000. More than half of that amount was collected during the first half of the year since a number of property owners paid their full year tax then.

The personal tax is payable on office and factory equipment, investments, jewelry and other personal belongings not included in the real estate classification.

Not That It Matters

What Happened To Hopes Of Keeping Partisanship Out Of Neutrality Fight?

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF IT WAS HOPED at first that the neutrality fight could be kept clear of partisanship, that hope must be fading, especially in Washington where congressmen know better than anyone else just how completely the president's alleged cash-and-carry plan places this nation's safety in one man's hands—the president's.

There would be far less opposition to the plan if it placed this country's war policy at the discretion of congress, but as the plan stands now, the president would have the power to say when a nation was at war, define war zones, combat areas, and extend credit to belligerent nations.

In fact, six of the ten points in the president's plan delegate special discretionary powers to him.

Causing the most concern is the one which would permit the president to extend credit without any restrictions as to amount or time, to any individual or concern in a warring nation.

Thus the cash-and-carry plan becomes merely a credit-and-carry arrangement after all—the very thing which even proponents of the president's plan admit is most likely to get us into war.

* * *

EVERY thinking adult in America has a right to his or her opinion on the neutrality brainteaser, and has a right to express it. That is the American way, to have a voice in our own affairs.

Which makes all the more contemptible right now the efforts of certain groups to discredit anyone who disagrees with them on neutrality. This week they put out a story that anyone who favored the present neutrality law—signed by President Roosevelt himself several years ago—was a pro-German, a pro-Nazi and a victim of Hitler propaganda.

That sort of thing is un-American and closely akin to the dictatorial, destructive forces that are sweeping Europe today.

Don't be stampeded by propaganda which would do credit to Herr Goebbels.

* * *

TRIVIALITY: After reading every word on those ships that have been lost in the war zones, you don't know whether they were hit by an enemy sub torpedo, struck a mine, or sunk under the weight of propaganda. . . . A chancellor wearing a monocle was killed last week; a German general wearing a monocle was killed this week. Come, come, all this isn't getting us anywhere. Why not take a pot-shot at a gentleman wearing a little black mustache.

Legionnaires parading in Chicago were cheered more loudly than ever. They couldn't make up their minds whether the crowds were cheering them for the last war or trying to sell them a new one. . . . Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the president, doesn't think her son has any desire for a third term. Which demonstrates once again that mothers never know what their sons are thinking. . . .

* * *

IN SPITE of its title and its cast "The Women" is strictly a man's picture—judging from the reaction of Mansfield audiences. As one man said: "I thought it was a howl from beginning to end—but I didn't dare laugh because my wife was with me."

There were two types of women who didn't like it: those who saw themselves in the mirror of it, and those who regarded it with indignation as being "highly overdrawn." A few didn't understand it and therefore "saw nothing to it."

Largely in the minority were the strictly honest gals who saw it, admitted it was the Real Lowdown on their sex—and thought it funny.

* * *

JOHN STEINBECK'S "The Grapes of Wrath" continues on the list of best-sellers this month, and the conversational battle still rages over whether or not the book is justified and whether there was anything gained in writing it.

It seems to me that any book which deals truthfully with a great social and economic problem is justified and should be read. The fact that the Oklahoma sharecroppers have a language that is different from the Richland county garden variety, is inconsequential.

And whatever sympathy one might have for Southern California in this trying problem, is entirely lost when the state's fruit growers still persist in sending out misleading and untruthful literature about wages and working conditions, with the sole purpose of luring ignorant people there, later to take advantage of their misery and poverty.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Billboard Spanks Pegler But He Sticks to Opinion Of Today's Entertainers

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—In the current issue of the Billboard, the Mein Kampf of the show business. I am taken to the woodshed to expiate aspersions on the professional quality of that class of entertainment in night clubs and jooks and which is commonly known as variety.

I understand the Billboard's indignation, for this publication has always viewed the show business in all its phases as one reich, and all its people, from Peggy Wood to the frowsy pitchman selling spud-peelers in the doorway of a vacant store, as one volk.

All are show people, including those helpless imbeciles with pear-shaped heads who drool in little canvas pits in the carnivals and the merry cynics who spin the paddle wheel which, somehow, never does stop on the number that wins the mother-of-pearl opera glasses wrapped in the ten dollar bill.

The Billboard believes that anything which is done to the least of its people is done to them all and that anything which is done for the greatest helps the most humble and obscure.

* * *

What I said about variety or night club performers, cannot be refuted by mere indignation, and I return to the controversy with a firm and slightly exasperated contention that these people are sadly inferior to those versatile and self-reliant troopers, the real variety players, who sang and hoofed, gave little one-act dramas, did magic and threw fish to the seals in the theaters.

Those performers were of the stage and proud to belong and the comedians and singers among them asked no favors from the audience except that, being human, they sometimes might bounce back to take one or two bows in excess of the legitimate demand.

If a comedian couldn't make them laugh he died, but died like a gentleman, whereas it is the habit of the night club comedian, in his evening clothes and with his air of having kindly condescended to leave a merry party at one of the tables, to sulk and insult the customers for failure to respond.

The variety comedian more often than not worked in a costume and makeup, and his material, or routine was worked out and tried out in advance. He might digress, for he was a humorist, not a parrot, and some of his efforts were spontaneous.

But he wasn't allowed to get personal with the trade—which is a way the night club comics have of currying favor—and he would have regarded such an appeal as unworthy of anyone who claimed to possess the ability to entertain. He kept his place, but he made the audience keep its place, too.

Moreover, the real variety talent, the comedians and singers both, could step out and give, and no matter how big the house or what the crackle of peanut shells upstairs they made themselves heard all over without mechanical help. They were real actors, trained to theater work, and the singers didn't flinch and back into their songs as the habit is in night clubs and radio today.

* * *

Without an electrical amplifier the talent today is utterly helpless, even in a small room with a low ceiling, and the comedians, when they need new material with which to refresh their work and appeal to the intelligence of the night club type of audience, just copy it off the walls of the gents' room.

In the amusement business, as well as in writing, it is conceded that dirt is no substitute for talent, and here again the comparison favors the variety actor who worked in the theater. He had to operate within the limits of a house rule which read, "keep it clean."

Churches Set Forth On 12-Week Loyalty Program Tomorrow

Concerted Move Aimed at Deepening Spiritual Life of Community as Well as Increased Attendance, Opens as Sunday Schools Hold Annual Rally Day Observance.

Mansfield churches set forth tomorrow on a movement to instill a new vigor into the worship services of their members.

Banding together under the sponsorship of the Richland County Ministerial association, 21 congregations are opening a 12-week "Loyalty to Christ and Church" program as their Sunday schools conduct their annual Rally day observance.

While an effort to increase attendance at church services and Sunday school is a part of the Loyalty program, this is not the principal purpose back of this movement, Rev. Henry H. Ford, president of the ministerial association, said today.

"Our hope is that it will bring a deepening of the spiritual life of the entire community, and it is on this particular point that we are placing emphasis." Rev. Ford added.

"The church is the only institution in the world that year after year insists that human life has dignity and worth, that love is better than hate, and that after all, the most valuable thing in the world is the soul of man.

"As a united force the churches of Mansfield will stress these facts in coming weeks."

Twelve different themes have been suggested by the Ministerial association for each week of the program. The theme for Rally Day is "Christ and the Church." Other themes suggested are "The Christ of Every Man"; "The Christ of Calvary;" "The Reigning Christ;" "Christ and Human Relationships;" "Christ and the Life of Power;" "Christ and Prince of Peace;" "Christ and Possessions;" "Christ the Fountain Source;" "The Christ of Prophecy"; "Christ Our Necessity;" and "The Christ of the Incarnation."

Rally Day which each year marks the beginning of fall and winter activities in the Sunday schools as well as churches, is observed in most Sunday schools with special programs and combined services of worship. A detailed account of the programs in the churches follow:

SCIENTIST TOPIC

"Unrealty" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing: there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches" (Proverbs 13:7).

Drive carefully tomorrow—and don't forget to have your car and tires checked for possible defects.

Considering the high cost of peace, it is doubtful if we could afford a war.

A democracy is a country where people can agree to disagree, and keep on living together.

Another War of Words

ANOTHER battle of words seems to be in the offing, with the Bigelow pension plan assured a place on the November ballot.

The pension backers will probably base much of their campaign on the desirability of a $50 monthly pension for each single person in Ohio over 60 years of age, and an $80 pension for married couples over that age.

The pension opponents will find their best weapon in the cost of such a plan—and up to the present, it would seem that the opponents are in the better position because they have been able to marshal more figures to show what a staggering burden of cost the plan would impose, and how far short of meeting it the financing machinery of the Bigelow plan would fall.

The Bigelow plan calls for a 2 per cent tax on land exceeding $20.000 an acre in valuation and a state income tax of one-fourth the federal tax. Proponents claim those levies will produce from 60 to 100 millions per year which they say is enough to pay the bill.

Opponents say the Bigelow plan would cost more than 300 millions per year, and cite an impressive array of figures to substantiate their claims.

They offer further figures to show that the Bigelow tax plan would not produce 60 to 100 millions, but less than 45 millions in revenue.

Where, they ask, will the rest of the money come from? That's a good question for every voter to ask himself.

An Orchid To These Gardeners

ANY GARDENER who has gazed on a profusion of colorful flowers in his yard and reflected proudly that his own labors had helped nature somewhat in the achievement of that beauty will know just how members of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club feel.

For members of that club have not only had a garden—they have cultivated a three-acre reservation of wild flowers at South park that has been judged the best project of its kind in the state, and have been awarded with a prize symbolic of such achievement.

Anyone who has ever spent a summer working a 30-foot flower garden can readily recognize the magnitude of caring for three whole acres—and doing it better than anyone else in the state has done a similar job.

Yet all of this work and all that it means to the city to have this conservation of wild flowers once native to the state, can be destroyed by thoughtless persons who have the idea that anything growing wild is theirs for the taking. Many wild flowers, notably trilliums, are destroyed by merely picking the flowers. Mansfield citizens can show their appreciation of the work of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club by refraining from picking flowers or pulling up plants in the conservation garden, and by educating their children to "look but not touch."

An orchid, then—if an orchid is appropriate—to Johnny Appleseed Garden club.

Loyalty Program—Timely, Needed

WHILE the forces of war and hate goad men to kill each other in other lands, the forces of peace and goodwill are being harnessed in Mansfield for a vastly different mission—a mission for worshipping God.

The fact that 21 Mansfield churches are uniting in a Loyalty program which opens Sunday and which has as its aim the deepening of the spiritual life of the entire community, is significant.

Of greater significance, however, is the fact that the church in general is the strong arm of righteousness in a topsy-turvy world. To live in a community without churches would be as unthinkable to the average American as living in a community that suppressed free speech and a free press.

The mind for peace which exists in our nation has been born in a large measure from the insistence of our churches that war can never destroy war.

Citizens of good will can do well by not only supporting their church during the Loyalty program, but throughout the year.

Reassuring Game

THE NEW YORK TIMES has an explanation for the popularity of the quiz-bee, now to be found on the air and in the living room and the family newspaper. It isn't simply that people like to show off their knowledge, or that having the answer gives them a sense of superiority.

The quiz-bee has risen to its high place in a period of tremendous and disturbing uncertainty. Nobody knows what the next decade, or even the next week or hour, holds for them or for civilization. In a way, that is just as well, but uncertainty is something it's possible to have too much of. When it begins to terrify it is harmful.

Here's where the quiz-bee comes in. Many people who follow these programs on the radio know the answers. Even when they are baffled themselves, they have the satisfaction and comfort of knowing that the master of ceremonies has all the answers already written down. It's great to know that there are answers to so many questions. Through such assurance comes the courage to face some of the uncertainties almost serenely.

Calamitous War

THE economic policy commission of the American Bankers association, in convention at Seattle, warns financiers to "go easy on loans." Col. Leonard P. Ayres, banker-economist and head of the commission, explains that the effects of the European war on American interests will be of major importance and "some of them may be unexpected."

At first they will seem to be beneficial, as American industries which produce goods needed by the belligerents experience increased business and firming prices. Those are gains which are likely to be wiped out in subsequent developments.

"In the long run," in the opinion of Col. Ayres, "the results will be adverse to us, for great wars are immense calamities which impoverish not only the participants, but all the nations of the world."

Have We a Right to Be Happy When the World's In Hell?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MARION isn't reading the papers these days. Won't let the youngsters turn on the European broadcasts. Puts her foot down if anyone starts an argument—

"Life's sad enough without going out of our way to learn all these horrors," Marion says. "I'm sure I've enough to do—taking care of Jim and the children, doing my duty right here at home—without cluttering my mind with that nightmare. It isn't OUR quarrel. We didn't make it . . . and we've no right to let it spoil our lives."

Looking at Marion, it seems quite plain that no nightmare has spoiled HER life. There isn't a line in her calm, pleasant face . . . or a rough note in her lovely, low voice. She's practicing what she preaches — is Marion. Living in some safe, peaceful haven of the mind—far from the terror and agony that's riding the rest of the world.

"Isn't she wonderful!" people say. "So wise — to keep herself above it all."

WONDERFUL? WISE?

I WONDER!

Is it true that this ghastly turmoil in Europe is "none of our business"? Had we no part in its making? I suspect we had a very large part! I don't believe that Germany or England, France or Poland are exclusively responsible for this horror. I believe the whole human race is responsible. It isn't just Hitler's fault. It's the fault of all human nature . . .

This thing didn't start in any one land or any one mind. It started wherever there's envy and greed, fear and hate, stupidity and cruelty, selfishness and egotism. It started wherever men are still half civilized . . . half ape—and that's everywhere!

You've helped make this war. I've helped make it. I've a bad temper. Every time I've given way to that temper, I contributed to that war. You're envious. Everytime you gave way to that envy, you contributed to that war.

We've all had a hand in it.

And we can't shake off that responsibility by refusing to read papers or turning off radios or stopping conversations. We only add cowardice to our other vices, when we try to dodge the issue.

Moreover, even from a purely selfish viewpoint, I don't think it's wise to turn away from this bedlam. There are things every person must bear—must share—if he hopes to become grown up. Pain and shame, pity and righteous anger, are all part of our adult experience. You can't sidestep them if you wish to be mature.

There are only two classes of people who are immune from mental participation in this world tragedy—infants and idiots. If you won't read papers today, if you won't listen to the radio, if you won't join in discussions—you are either an infant or an idiot.

Are YOU "your brother's keeper?" You are! You may never see his face or hear his name or speak his tongue. But as long as he suffers from ignorance or imposition, agony or terror, it's up to you to know about it and lend your soul and your mind in a fight against it!

Or admit you're a quitter.

Ohio Anecdotes

Indians Receive News.

CHIEFS of Ohio Indian nations on the Sandusky river received news of the Declaration of Independence about the same time that nations abroad learned of the history-making document.

A copy of the Pennsylvania Packet, a weekly newspaper, was brought to Ohio by American traders, who sought to further the American cause among the Indians.

British sympathizers in the Indian village to which the paper was brought pilfered the copy in an attempt to squelch further spreading of the "radical" ideas of liberty and freedom expressed in the Declaration.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Broadway, which has been lifting one eyebrow after another since the jitterbugs started massacring the theatrical classics, lifted a pair of them the other day when the news came out that Joan Edwards was writing a swing-musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," that ironical study of the martial relationship which shocked our parents two generations ago.

Now that Broadway has absorbed the shock of the WPA swinging Gilbert & Sullivan's "Mikado," and George Abbott's swinging Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" (Abbot called it "The Boys From Syracuse") Broadway is ready to expect anything. In fact right now, a company is rehearsing Benny Goodman's jive interpretation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Still, theatrical dopesters figured that cynical playwrights like Shaw would be safe from the hepcats. Miss Edwards, however, feels pretty certain that (if she can get permission from Shaw to produce) her musical version of "Man and Superman" will be an entertaining, if slightly unorthodox show.

* * *

UP TO now Miss Edwards has been known as a demure, 21-year-old girl, who is heard on the radio with Paul Whiteman's band, and frequently plays engagements in vaudeville theaters throughout the land. In her spare moments she is a hard-working composer, writing poular tunes in collaboration with Arthur Gershwin, younger brother of the late George Gershwin. Miss Edwards and Mr. Gershwin had written four or five jazz tunes, and a few weeks ago they were sitting around their studio, racking their brains for a new angle on a love-song.

"Why don't we swing a classic?" suggested Miss Edwards, none too originally.

"Who should we swing?" said Mr. Gershwin. "They did Tchaikowsky, Debussy, Beethoven, Bach and Brahms."

"I didn't mean a musician," elaborated Miss Edwards. "I mean somebody like—like Shakespeare. Somebody BIG!" She waved her fingers around vaguely.

"What do you mean—somebody big?"

Miss Edwards flashed a collected volume of Shaws plays. "I received this from the Book-of-the-Month club," she explained, "and it gives me an idea. An idea to do something with Shaw. That would be really something—different to swing."

"You said it," avowed Mr. Gershwin.

* * *

FIRED with enthusiasm, Miss Edwards sat awake all night jotting down musical ideas, fragments of hot choruses, adding new characters to Shaw's play and subtracting others. In the morning her project looked so solid that she dashed off a cablegram to Mr. Shaw, as well as a lengthy letter explaining her idea and soliciting his permission and approval. To date, she has received no definite word from the Irish ironist, but Miss Edwards hopes that he has enough sense of humor to approve the lighthearted japeries of her swing version of his play.

The theme of "Man and Superman" is the eternal war between men and women—with woman the pursuer and man the pursued.

"This angle," states Miss Edwards, "is a natural for hot jazzists who don't take love as seriously as the sentimental balladwriters."

In her version Miss Edwards expects to keep most of Shaw's original characters, and many of his speeches intact.

The surprise twist to the whole story is that Joan Edwards is a graduate of Hunter college. She graduated with honors, and would have won high honors, except that she flunked one course, English 22 A—"The Dramatic Technique of George Bernard Shaw."

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOP BILLING in this fourth week of Europe's blood-and-thunder spectacle went, not to soldiers, but to statesmen. And Moscow became the center of their stage. Visiting foreign ministers, seeking to learn Joe Stalin's intentions, made the Kremlin look like a diplomatic convention hall.

Among them were:

Estonia's Karl Selter, who arrived Monday, flew home that night and rushed back Wednesday to face Soviet charges that his country, which was part of Russia before the World War (see map, below), was harboring unidentified submarines in her waters.

An Estonian explanation of the escape of an interned Polish submarine last week, a Moscow communique added, and proved "unsatisfactory." And Selter's task got no easier when the Reds announced, Wednesday night, that an unidentified submarine had torpedoed and sunk a Russian steamer off Estonia.

Turkey's Sukru Saracoglu, whose arrival Monday set off rumors that Russia and Italy, with Turkey as go-between, were negotiating guarantees of southeastern Europe's status quo as the basis of a strong Balkan neutrality bloc under their combined leadership.

Germany's Joachim von Ribbentrop, who flew in Wednesday to discuss "problems connected with developments in Poland." His visit sped speculation on a Red-Nazi military alliance and a Russo-German request that Turkey serve as their broker in dickering for peace in western Europe.

Climax came Thursday when Russia and Germany agreed to three-ply pact for division of Poland, consultation on necessary steps if allies insisted on continuing war, and a pledge of mutual aid in the way of resources.

The allies spurned the demand for the end of warfare.

Unofficial nose-counts showed support rolling up in the senate, this week, for repeal of the four-year-old ban on sales of U. S. arms to belligerents.

By Thursday, as the issue headed toward the floor after a 16 to 7 committee vote in favor of repeal, just a week after President Roosevelt had urged "a return to international law": 45 senators—only four short of a majority—were out for repeal, 20 were on record for retaining the embargo, 31 were keeping mum in the presence of reporters. And pro-repealers claimed the secret support of 11 of those not committed.

Debate

Formal debate, expected to take a month, was scheduled to begin this coming week.

Points at Issue.

The revision bill, as drafted by the foreign relations committee's Democratic majority, would make these major changes in American machinery for keeping out of war:

1. Congress, instead of only the president, could decide when a foreign war exists, thus putting the act into effect.
2. War materials, as well as other goods, could be shipped to belligerents—but not on American ships.
3. Title to all goods sold to warring nations would pass to the purchaser before shipment.
4. The president would define combat areas, from which U. S. citizens and ships would be barred.
5. Loans to belligerents would be prohibited, as now, except for 90-day commercial credits.
6. The arming of American vessels in commerce with any foreign state, instead of only those in commerce with belligerents, would be illegal.
7. A control board would continue to license arms exports, and would report to congress twice a year on licenses issued.

Fight Dope.

Debate will open with a semi-truce declared between administration supporters and their foes: Pro-repealers promise no attempts will be made to tire out the opposition, and anti-repealers say they'll stick to the subject.

Diminutive, quick-tongued, fast-moving Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, probably will do the heaviest hod-carrying for the administration as the senate fight progresses.

He faces the senate's big foreign-affairs gun, Borah of Idaho, a veteran of World war battles in congress.

Abroad

War of Words.

"Propaganda," says Columbia University's Dr. Clyde R. Miller, secretary of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, "is modern warfare's most subtle weapon—bombardment's advance scout against the enemy, conscription's aide-de-camp at home, diplomacy's under-secretary in recruiting allies abroad."

Samples this week:

1. From British pamphlets dropped on Germany: "Your government's hope of a successful blitzkrieg has been destroyed by the British war cabinet's decision to prepare for a three years war.

"Your supplies of a whole range of essential war materials . . . are almost gone and you can no longer rely as you did in the last war upon neutral supplies because your government cannot pay for them."

2. From the "ten commandments of the German soldier, released in Berlin: "Fight chivalrously without unnecessary brutality. . . . Spare the lives of any opponent who surrenders. . . . Treat prisoners humanely. . . . Refrain from the use of dum-dum bullets. . . . Respect the Red Cross. . . . Spare the civil population unnecessary hardships and refrain from plundering. . . . Respect the neutrality of non-combatant states."

Panama Parley.

At Buenos Aires, in 1936, nations of the western world agreed to consult jointly in the event their peace was threatened by war at home or abroad. Under that provision, representatives of all 21 American republics met this week in Panama to discuss neutrality and commercial problems arising from the conflict in Europe.

U. S. Undersecretary of State Welles called for a "declaration of the inalienable right of the American republics to defend themselves," and said the U. S. navy would help patrol a safety zone for commercial shipping in western hemisphere waters.

Behind the Lines.

Britons were told Wednesday that taxes were being boosted to the highest rates ever: $572 this year and $721 next, for instance, on a married man with two children and an income of $4,000.

Germans were assured that a bumper crop had given the Reich its largest grain stores ever, and that the country could stand two "weak" harvests in a row.

People

German Generals.

Col.-Gen. Werner von Fritsch was Hollywood's Prussian officer come to life—stiff, close-cropped, a rimless monocle on his left eye. After helping Hitler rebuild the German army, he resigned last year as commander in chief: Poor health, he said; allergic to Brownshirts, others explained. To fill his boots, the Fuehrer picked smiling Col.-Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch. And last week-end, as Brauchitsch, 58, completed his blitzkrieg against Poland and shifted to the western front, Fritsch, 59, still the army's idol but in a role far below his former eminence, was killed before Warsaw.

Death Comes to An Exile.

Members of the Vienna Medical Society listened in icy coldness when a young Jewish neurologist told them, in 1906, that mental ills could be traced directly to civilization's restraints upon sexual impulses. And they laughed in his face when he said dreams were an outlet for impulses held back by subconscious inhibitions. But "complex" soon was an everyday word, and Dr. Sigmund Freud became known around the world as the "father of psychoanalysis." Last year, after Germany absorbed Austria, he fled to London—a white-bearded, penniless victim of Nazi anti-Semitism. There, last week-end, he died at 83.

Timely Editorial

Music Again a War Victim.

One of the unpleasant by-products of the last war was the hysterical reaction against everything German which resulted in the renaming of streets, parks and the like, removal of statues, banning of German in the schools, demonstrations against German singers and music and even such absurdities as stoning dachshunds and calling German measles Liberty measles. For the most part these manifestations were confined to the United States. Britain, closer to the actual seat of war, while affected, was, oddly, not so intransigent.

It is therefore a significant indication of the state of British opinion and the thoroughness of the English propaganda work at home that the municipal band of Hastings, England, is to play no more Wagner compositions. The basis of this action is that Hitler loves Wagnerian music, the Hastings folk hate Hitler, ergo Wagner ought to be banished from the repertoire.

This seems a pity. Wagner was no Nazi, that ignoble philosophy being unborn when he lived. Moreover the further contention that his "heavy, florid, at times dissonant music typifies the Nazi methods" seems a little silly. Great music knows no nationalistic frontiers and no war will ever be won by discriminating against it.—Columbus Dispatch.

Daily Bible Thought

Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.—Matt. 15:11.

QUOTES

President Roosevelt: "Let no group assume the exclusive label of the peace 'bloc.' We all belong to it. . . . By repeal of the embargo the United States will more probably remain at peace than if the law remains as it stands today."

Justice Frankfurter: "We can agree to be non-combatant, but it is our right and duty to have thoughts on issues involving human destiny. No man who thinks really is neutral."

Alf M. Landon: "This question of neutrality has to be decided not on the basis of helping England or France but purely on the basis of what's best for America. . . . At the same time we don't desire to do anything that will aid Hitler."

At Home

Elmer In Chicago.

Of 4,041,020 U. S. veterans of the World War, 1,026,084 are members of the American Legion; and 480,000 of their womenfolk belong to its auxiliary. Large and noisy delegations of both turned up in Chicago this week for the Legion's 21st national convention.

On Tuesday, 21st anniversary of the beginning of the Argonne offensive, 90,000 marched through a cold rain under banners urging American neutrality and preparedness in the face of Europe's new war. A formal "pronouncement," adopted Wednesday, demanded that "Congress continue in session during the present grave crisis and . . . our armed forces be expanded immediately." Raymond J. Kelly, Detroit, was elected national commander.

Dies Developments.

Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, announced Tuesday he no longer would "co-operate" with the Dies committee's probe of un-Americanism. "He is afraid to reappear," Chairman Dies replied, "because he knows we've got him." This argument followed the committee's decision to recall Kuhn as a witness, after another witness—an ex-member of the German Reichstag—had branded as "untrue" Kuhn's previous testimony that the Bund had no connections with Nazi Germany.

Weather Report.

A record-breaking September hot spell in southern California ended, last week-end, with a tropical storm. A 5-inch rain was accompanied by a 65-mile-an-hour gale that caught scores of sports fishermen and Sunday sailors at sea. Property damage was estimated at $1,000,000 and the death toll, by mid-week, had climbed to 38. In parts of New England, meanwhile, fall's official advent brought three inches of snow.

In Short

Won: The gold cup race of the President's cub regatta, by Miss Canada III, of Toronto.

Ordered: Laura Ingalls, to show cause why her flying license should not be revoked, for "bombing" the White House with peace pamphlets.

Recaptured: Four Michigan convicts, five hours after they escaped by kidnaping the warden, deputy warden and two members of the state parole board.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Retail Means "a Piece Cut Off."

Indelibly does the word "retail" bear its plain-for-all-to-read story. Stemming from the French retaille meaning "a piece cut off," the first sale at retail was unquestionably something that was cut, pared, diminished—thus, perhaps entirely without calculation divided for disposition, into many fragments or portions.

Hence followed the use of the term "retail" for anything merchanted in small quantities rather in bulk, a part sale rather than wholesale.

SEASON WELL STARTED BY MANSFIELD CLUBS

Instructors From Ohio Colleges Will Be In Town for Programs; Some Groups to Conduct First Sessions Next Week.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

ANOTHER club year is really under way. Just wait until you see the long list of activities planned for the first week in October, and you'll be all agog. In the past few weeks the season has been launched by the efforts of leaders throughout the city, and the only thing remaining now is attending meetings, luncheons, teas and bridges and hearing instructive and entertaining lectures on a variety of subjects.

October has long been regarded as the proper month for beginning autumn work, so between now and Halloween we will witness the first sessions in several organizations.

With the interest in club programs, plans for the social season, and the deluge of coming marriages the pre-Christmas season in Mansfield will be comparable to that in any of the larger cities. But it is time now to look ahead to see what is scheduled for the week to come.

Sunday.

Bright and early on the Sabbeth Miss Ellen Marvin will don her wedding gown to march up the aisle of the First Brethren church where she will meet her future husband and exchange the nuptial vows.

Miss Marvin and Fuller Dunson will be married by Rev. J. L. Boyer at 8:30 a. m.

Monday.

An amazingly large Monday calendar is enough to send us scurrying for a new typewriter ribbon with which to write all. It will be out at Ruth Zelenka's home that the Chi Omega alumnae club will elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. Eugene Miller of Loudonville will present a program on "Why Chi Omega Is Truly National."

Those busy doctors' wives are carrying on a detailed schedule this year under the name of the Auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society, and Mrs. Charles Brown and Mrs. D. C. Lavender will be hostesses at the Women's Club.

For their second meeting of the season the A. A. U. W. will have a fellowship tea at the Country club. Dr. Hope-Hibbard of Oberlin will be guest speaker with Mrs. L. C Nigh, Mrs. R. D. Campbell and Miss Virginia Howard serving on the general committee.

The opening gun will be fired Monday night, but it will have a musical sound when Prof. James H. Hall comes to Mansfield to speak for the first lecture in a series of three before members of the Music Study club at the Women's Club. There will be no dinner at this meeting.

Lack of space prevents my writing detailed information about the meetings of all of the groups in the city during the week, but all reported events are announced in the Schedule of Events which appears regularly on this page. Please look there for your meetings.

Tuesday.

With a program already well started the members of the Tuesday Book club will gather at the Women's Club with Mrs. W. D. Abrams to hear Mrs. Paul A. Stoodt give a review of "Henry, King of France," by Heinrich Mann. "Conservation in Our National Parks" is the topic selected for Mrs. Carl Spangler's paper, while Mrs. Roy Curry will talk on "The Chipping Sparrow" at the Audubon session with Mrs. H. J. Paulsen.

If you confuse Mansfield with a college town next week, I won't be the surprised one, for Prof. Stuart McGowan, who comes here from Kenyon college to talk on "Current Aspects of the Democratic Party," will be the third instructor in higher education to give an address in the city during the first three days of the week. Prof. McGowan will talk to the Dolly Madison club members at Prospect park, and Mrs. Louise Reese, Mrs. Ella McHugh, Mrs. Charles Lex, Mrs. William Schrack, Mrs. Clara Hicks, Mrs. Wilma Dunshee, Mrs. Glenn Campbell, and Mrs. H. J. Linton will serve as hostesses.

The opening program on Australia will be presented Tuesday when Mrs. H. L. Creveling entertains members of the Sorosis at the Women's Club. Miss Caroline Lampert and Mrs. W. J. Bishop will give the papers.

Additional events include activities of the C. L. of C., two social sororities, several social clubs and a number of church groups.

Wednesday.

How these anniversaries do brighten the club calendar. The Conversational club is coming into the esteemed class of "one of the city's older clubs" with a silver anniversary celebration on Wednesday. The affair will be at the Women's Club with Miss Elizabeth Smurr in charge, and Mrs. Walter Willis giving the program.

For the past two years we have considered Wednesday one of the heaviest meeting days of the week, but it appears that there has been a revision. At any rate major clubs have not set their dates to fall in the mid-week yet, but a variety of other events are planned. For example both the Liberty park auxiliary and the E. L. K. Sewing circle will resume autumn activities. The former at the clubhouse, the latter with Mrs. Abrams at the Women's Club.

Lodge groups include a party for the Miriam Rebekahs, a session of the Past Pocahontas association, a meeting of Auxiliary No. 100, the Women of the Moose, and a luncheon-bridge for the American Legion auxiliary. Churches keep busy too with the St. Agnes guild and the Findley-Anderson Bible class taking top honors, while several Mothers clubs and social organizations will provide interest for the afternoon.

Thursday.

Thursday isn't quite up to expectations either in the club sense, but being the first of the month it is the favorite afternoon and evening for the meetings of the major church organizations. The Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the First Methodist church will be in session at the church, and all the circles of the First Presbyterian church will have meetings.

Mrs. W. R. King assisted by Mrs. M. W. Hieber, Mrs. Edward Axtell and Miss Henrietta Frank, will entertain at her home, 395 Edgewood road, with luncheon for members of Circle One. I understand that Mrs. King or Mrs. Axtell will accept reservations until 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Thursday also marks the first meeting of the Women's Association of the First Congregational church. The session will be held at the church. Other events planned include the gatherings of social groups.

Friday.

This is the season of the year when meetings of garden clubs and study groups overlap so that the week-end calendar is bulging with various events. The second function of the year will be held by the Mansfield Federation of Women at the Club with a director's tea and program at 2:30 p. m. Members of the Jared Mansfield D. A. R. chapter will gather at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Stanley A. Richardson as chairman.

A program on radio and motion pictures and the correct use of the flag by Mrs. Spangler, and Mrs. H. C Brubaker will be given. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, Mrs. B. L. Chase, Mrs J. M. Barnett, Mrs. William Dice, and Mrs. G. W. Hypes.

Mrs. Blake Shafer of Bellville will welcome the members of the Timely Topics club, and the Town and Country Garden club will meet with Mrs. H. L. Longsdorf.

A "dues paying party" will be held by the Lucretia Hedges Missionary society, and the Neighborhood Bible club will have an anniversary luncheon with Mrs. A. B. M. White serving as hostess.

Saturday.

More weddings will provide Saturday interest, and the nuptial services will center around St. Peter's Catholic church with a ceremony at 8 a. m. and another at 9:30. Miss Ruth Massa and Herman Kass will marry in the first, and Miss Isabel Moyer and Edgar H. Weakland will be wedded in the second.

The first of the fall season's dances will be given by the Mansfield General Hospital Alumnae association at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The members and their guests will dance to the music of Tommy Van's orchestra at the semi-formal function which will be held from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Mrs. Richard L. Maxwell, assisted by Mrs. Tom Forrest, Mrs. Harry German and Miss Mary Ellen Spriesterbach, is in charge.

So once again we've brought the news of another week, and a new month. We'll probably be seeing you around before next Saturday.

Mansfield Busy With Numerous Social Affairs

Two Brides-to-Be Have Showers at Homes of Friends.

Yesterday was Mansfield's busy day, with weddings, teas, garden club meetings, luncheons and social functions of great variety crowding every minute. Pre-nuptial affairs remain in the entertainment lead with club gatherings in second place.

Mansfield Garden Clubs Still Busy With Study Plans

Yesterday was another garden club day, and a variety of interests were discussed during the afternoon. Mrs. D. J. Lamneck opened her home to the Cottage members, and they heard Mrs. George Fort give a paper entitled "A Garden Tour Across the States."

A 1 o'clock luncheon was served at a table decorated with marigolds and pompons. Mrs. Ernest Larson was the associate hostess. Mrs. Sherman Wentz gave a report of the Garden Club of Ohio meeting which was held Tuesday and Wednesday in Akron. The next meeting will be Oct. 13 with Mrs. Walter Goodenough.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Oct. 1.

SUNDAY'S horoscope must be read as a particularly lively and stirring one, with rather vital issues at stake in both the business and private relations. It is probable that the latter may be under high stimuli, but social, domestic, romantic or cultural affairs are threatened by deception and peculiar dangers. Young and romantic persons should be especially vigilant and circumspect.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which all intellectual and cultural expressions may be under particularly high tension. This tension may precipitate lively if not drastic performance. Young people and youthful urges and demands are under clamorous need for "emancipation." Imprudent or reckless pursuit of such objectives may entail sinister involvements or regrettable complications. Use restraint, discretion and forethought before seeking illicit "escapes."

A child born on this day, while being versatile, artistic, musical or literary, may be carried to extremes by youthful urges and impetuosities. Proper training of excellent talents, and the direction of a refined, genial and lovable nature, would fit it for a very successful career.

For Monday, Oct. 2.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for sudden and quite unforeseen developments which may cause rather revolutionary changes in old and wearying inhibitions or depressions. Limitations, difficulties and delays may give way to new urges, emotions and ambitions, and these may find expression in romance and courtship, or in emotional or artistic adventures.

Those whose birthday it is are under an astral urge to find success, happiness and adventure in artistic, social or domestic affairs. There may be a radical breaking away from old persons, places and circumstances, to find lively events, good fortune and happiness. There may be secrecy or hidden joys to heighten spiritual satisfactions.

A child born on this day may have a rather curious or intriguing character and temperament, with hidden sources of inspiration, ideals or psychological gratifications. Openly radical and venturesome, it may be romantic and pleasure-seeking.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

"My dear Mrs. Graham, it is so good of you to call me so promptly. I trust you have good news for me."

"It depends on how you look at it," I said a trifle shrewishly. "I have learned that the arrangement you planned is satisfactory for the forenoon."

"I am gratified beyond measure," he said before I could reveal the delay to which the arrangement would be subject. "I suppose I can begin tomorrow?"

"That is impossible, I am sorry to tell you," I said promptly. "Because of the personal stipulation I made to you when you were here, nothing else can be done for three days at least. But I promise you now that I will telephone you the first moment the arrangement can be put into effect, and I do not think there will be any interruptions once the schedule is started. I cannot be absolutely certain upon that last point, but reasonably so."

"I trust you are correct in your—surmise," he said. "There is nothing for me to do but to wait and rely upon your word that you will telephone me the moment you learn at what date the plan can go into effect."

"As soon as I can get to a telephone after I learn the date, I will telephone you," I promised. "And now, is there anything more I can do for you?"

"No, thank you. That assurance is all I need," he said.

"Then, if you will excuse me," I said tentatively, and his response was prompt and as curt as it is possible for him to be when talking to a woman.

"Oh! but surely," he said, and the click of the telephone told me that I was dismissed.

I lost no time in hanging up my own receiver and hurrying downstairs to the dining room. Katie, was bringing in cups of steaming broth.

"Your loonch, she not all spoiled," she said. "Eef you drink dot tomato joose qveeck, I bring een your broth so you kin haf eet mit rest."

I could not blame Katie for her temperamental flurry over her luncheon after I sampled the delicious chicken pie which was the high point of her meal I could not blame her for not wishing a delay in its serving which would impair its quality.

Both Lillian and I sounded its praises, but it fell to Harry Underwood to give Katie the supreme accolade. After his second serving had been wholly consumed, he beckoned to her as she was clearing the table of the main course and said coaxingly:

"Tell me, Katie, how big was that chicken pie you baked?"

Katie, who is well used to his vagaries, giggled gleefully.

"Not so terrible big," she said. But waiting an instant for dramatic effect, she added coyly, "But, you see, I vant make sure eferybody have all dey vant so I make two dem scheecken pies."

"Two!" Mr. Underwood echoed dramatically. "Then would I be robbing anybody else if you gave me a third helping? I never ate anything so good in my whole life."

Katie looked as if she were going to make an instant altitude flight for joy.

Have Third or More.

"Sure ting, you kin half third helping," she said. "You kin haf more dan dot. You kin haf fort, fift—"

"Hold on, Katie!" Lillian interrupted, laughing. "He probably would take you up on that offer, and then I'd have a sick husband on my hands."

"Always spoiling my good times," her big husband grumbled. "But thank you, Katie; I'll limit myself to the third helping."

"I'll make eet vun beeg vun," she promised ecstatically, but I did not wait to see how well she kept her pledge. As soon as I finished the fluffy pudding which was her last course, I slipped away and up to the room where Mary was caring for Noel. But when the door swung open in answer to my knock, it was Olina, not Mary, who answered it.

It is painful to watch an inexpert declarer waste an essential entry which is needed either to bring in some establishable cards or to furnish a chance to lead toward cards which are in a "tenace" position. At times this error assumes the form of unwillingness to overtake one honor by another when getting into a particular hand is more important than obtaining a discard on some high card it possesses.

After East opened here with 1-Heart, South bid 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, South 3-Diamonds and North, to show preference, had to go to 4-Clubs. Better bidding would have produced a 2-Diamond overcall by South on the first round, so that after North bid 2-Spades he could have called 3-Clubs, and the preference could have been by passing. Showing greater length of the clubs was not as important with such a hand as the making of a preference economical.

At that, South should have made the 4-Clubs, had he realized the importance of leading twice toward the diamond Q-J. After the heart J lead to the A, he should have sent the club Q to the K, ruffed the heart return, taken the club A and J, led a diamond to the J and K, ruffed the third heart, overtaken the spade K with the A, led another diamond from dummy and so have made his contract.

Instead, after the first heart trick, he took the spade K, sent the club Q to the K, ruffed the heart return, took the club A and J and the spade K for a diamond discard, led the diamond 5 to the J and K, ruffed the return heart, then had to lead from his own diamonds, so that both the 10 and A won tricks, setting him.

CHAPTER XVIII

"And Miss Verne? She does not show deep grief over her loss."

"I confess I don't understand the girl. She was so lovely with Harley last night, and now, as you say, she's very quiet, but she says no word of sorrow, even to me alone. I will go now, and I will send Hetty. Please don't let any suspicion attach to Craig. If anybody breathes a word of blame on that boy, I cannot stand it!"

* * *

Cornelia left the room quickly, and Stone knew she was greatly disturbed. Had she heard a word against Craig? Was there anything to hear against Craig?"

Cornelia had left the door partly open, and Stone heard, coming along the hall, Hetty's heavy tread and Hetty's not unmusical voice.

"Dear Saviour, when I langwidge, and lay me downter die, Oh, send a shinin' angel—el to bear me to the sky."

She came in, her black silk gown relieved by a small white collar and cuffs, and turned to close the hall door behind her.

Stone rose and offered a chair, and Hetty seated herself with deferential dignity. "You want to ask me things?"

"Yes, Hetty. I do. You were here, I believe, when Mr. Madison lived here with his wife?"

"I certainly was, Mr. Stone; and before that, and since that, and I hope to the Lord, I'll be here a long time yet."

"I hope so. Well, then, when you first told Miss Madison of her brother's death, early this morning, she said, 'Who killed him?'"

"May his pot never boil.
May his clocks never tick.
May his hens never lay.
whoever the rapscallion may have been!" Hetty declared, with a whole hymn of hate flashing from her small black eyes.

"But what did Miss Madison mean by her question? Did she have reason to think he was killed?"

"Seemin'ly—it would seem so. I never thought of that. You see I knew he was killed, so I'd no call to fright Miss Cornelia to death by tellin' her, and yet she seemed to sense it somehow. Queer, ain't it?"

"Yes, very queer."

Something in Stone's tone made her look at him sharply, and she sensed a hint of suspicion though of whom she didn't know.

* * *

But she was taking no chances and she hitched her chair nearer to the detective and shook one fat forefinger in his face.

"Pray God I'm wrong," she said in a menacing voice, "but if so be you're meanin' any slur at that angel of light and glory, Miss Cornelia Madison ..."

"Heavens, no, Hetty! No breath of suspicion could ever touch Miss Madison. Don't be silly! But you must know that somebody in this house will be suspected, because somebody must have done the fearful deed, and the police are ready and anxious to find some one to suspect. I am not asking you as to the family, but among the staff is there some under-servant, perhaps, or some one who had a grudge against Mr. Madison who might have brought about his death? Don't answer too quickly. think a minute."

"Death and the terrors of the grave, Stood round me with their dismal shade."

"Don't sing now, Hetty. Answer the question I asked, won't you, Hetty?"

"As to some one in the lot of us, being out of sorts against Mr. Madison, and being so wicked as to kill him? Well, Mr. Stone, there is one, I feel I must mention. He's an under-gardener, and I can't see how he coulda got in the house, or in Mr. Madison's room, but I do say that he had hate in his heart and murder in his mind."

"What is the man's name?"

"He's an I-talian. Michael Barcetti his name is. And he's bad as they come.

"Why did Mr. Madison keep such a scamp on his payroll?"

"One o' his charity experiments. He was always for helpin' lame dogs over stiles, and if a chap came to him with a hard luck story, Mr. Madison, he'd order Wilkins to find a job for him and keep him a while on trial. 'Most they always away with anything they could steal, but once in a while they turned out good. But this here Baretti, he's bad."

"Yes, I know. I'll see Wilkins about him. Now, tell me more about this queer door with the bolt. Is it used much?"

"Mostly never, sir. When it was Mrs. Madison's bedroom, there wasn't any such heathenish dingus to open and shut it with. It had a Christian knob and lock on it."

"Why was it changed?"

"After Miss Florence died, that's what we loved to call Mrs. Madison, she was so dear and sweet, Mr. Madison was pestered by people comin' into his room unintential like. You see, Miss Florence's room was made into a regular little settin' room complete with writin' desk and radio and all. Often, the visitors would set there and like as not, they'd open the door, unmeaning like, and go right into Mr. Madison's room."

"Why didn't he just put an ordinary lock on it?"

"It pleased him to have it fixed so he could open it whenever he liked, but other folks couldn't drop in on him. He's quite one for sittin' in his own room, sir. Well, he had the other side of the door, the settin' room side, all painted pretty to match the fixin's in there and there was no knob or door handle or latch or anything whatsoever in that room. Then this side he had a spring bolt put on and that was what kept it shut. You see, sir, it's just like the little spring bolt on a wall cupboard, or a closet door. You can open it from one side, but not the other."

"What use did Mr. Madison make of it?"

"Truth to tell, he didn't use it very much. Mostly, in summer time. Of a hot night he'd leave that door open so the breeze from that great big window could blow round him yet not direct on him, cause that gave him laryngitis."

"Did the door sometimes blow shut with a bang?"

"Oh, no, cause it has a spring. Come and see."

Hetty rose and went to the door, and Stone followed.

Sure enough, at the back edge of the door was a slender strong spring, as long, nearly, as the door itself. This was adjustable in strength, so that the door could be made to shut slowly or rapidly at will.

"Mr. Madison was fond of mechanical appliances, I judge," Stone said.

"Gaget was his middle name," Hetty said.

"That's what I thought. Hetty, that's why I think there must be some way of getting into this room, that we don't any of us know of. There must be! Mr. Madison's death could not possibly be a suicide, so it was murder. The murderer had to get in this room, and did get in this room . . . All right, Hetty, and thank you for your help. And don't repeat a word of our conversation today. Promise?"

"Yes, Mr. Stone, I promise."

* * *

The next morning was given over to a session with the lawyer. Richard Kellogg had had charge of Harley Madison's legal matters for many years, and the relationship between the two men was none too cordial. For frequently the client insisted on some procedure that the man of law deemed utterly foolish or even stupid. Sometimes Kellogg would voice his opinions with promptness and emphasis, but this always led to such a long and painful discussion, which was sure to end up in Madison's favor, that of late, the lawyer had merely obeyed orders, no matter how much he disapproved of them. The sole reason for this was that he wanted to retain his position as adviser to the millionaire, and feared a dismissal if he disagreed too insistently.

He came to Silver Hill, resolved to make a good impression on the family, for he had strong hopes that he might continue his services to Madison's heirs. In the study, were gathered Miss Madison and the two nephews, and Everett Ames.

The talk was all of the disposal of Harley Madison's estate.

"I'll say he acted like a lunatic!" stormed Kellogg. "To tear up his will before another was drawn! And, crazy fool that he was, he always kept his signed will here in his office, and left only a copy with me. Never was a man so headstrong and so lacking in judgment and business sense!"

Cornelia spoke quietly but with emphasis.

"Mr. Kellogg, you seem to forget yourself. You must not speak that way of the dead, and under this roof you shall not speak like that of Harley Madison. Change your manner of talk at once, or leave this house."

"I'm sorry, Miss Madison and I won't offend again. It is only my zeal in your interests that makes me so troubled about these things. But we will proceed to business. Mr. Madison died intestate, as we all know. Therefore, his estate must be disposed of according to law. This, I may say at once, will give Miss Madison one-third of her brother's estate, and Mr. Craig Madison and Mr. Tom Sheldon, one-third each. This as you see, makes no provision for the household staff, for any charities or for the Village Improvement Project, in which the late Mr. Madison was so deeply interested.

"It also annuls several bequests to friends, which Mr. Madison had devised in all his previous wills, including Mr. Ames here, to whom a generous legacy was left in the torn up will."

"My brother's estate ran to the value of many millions, I think." Cornelia said, watching the lawyer's face.

"Yes, Miss Madison, ten million at least, perhaps more. It is impossible to tell, offhand."

"Then there will be plenty for all of us. I will attend to the cancelled legacies you mention, and I will assume that there was also a sum left to you, in recognition of your long service."

"I did not speak with that in mind," lied Kellogg, "and, of course, what the heirs see fit to do with the fortune is not my business. I hope you will be inclined to retain my services in the management of the necessary legal processes, and I shall serve you to the best of my ability."

"Speaking for myself," Craig announced, "I'm sorry if I disappoint you, Mr. Kellogg, but I expect to put my affairs in the hands of a friend of mine, who is a New York lawyer, of good standing."

Declares Communists Control 11 of CIO's 44 Unions

FORMER 'RED' TELLS ABOUT LABOR ACTION

Asserts Lewis Wouldn't Find It Easy to Purge Ranks of Communistic Element.

WASINGTON—Joseph Zack, who described himself as a charter members of the U. S. communist party, told the Dies committee that communists now control 11 of the CIO's 44 International unions.

"John L. Lewis," he added, "would not find it easy to get rid of them."

Zack, who said his wife and small child were held hostage in Russia because he deserted the communist party in 1934, said that communists had gained control of the CIO unions by distributing their strength and working to get themselves elected to office whenever possible.

Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., interjected that he could not understand why possible union leaders, "like Mr. Lewis who is not a communist, do not take action to get rid of the communists they know are in their ranks.'

Zack said it was because non-communist unionists believed that they can "use" the communists.

Dies and Zack turned to a discussion of international affairs, and Zack agreed with Dies that "the whole strategy of the communists is to cripple the United States in event of war."

"And it is not in the interest of the Soviet government," Zack added, "for the United States to aid Great Britain and France.

"The American public does not know yet that Joe Stalin's political soldiers work only for Joe Stalin and do not really have the same interests as the masses here."

He asserted that the communist policy here is dictated from Moscow in the interests of the Russian government.

Zack testified that he took his family to Moscow in 1927, when he went there as a comintern delegate, and that they have been there ever since.

"My wife and child," he testified, "are held as hostages expecting, in this case, good behavior on my part.

"But I have tired of this behavior and Stalin's failure to keep his promises to send them back. I have made up my mind that it is my duty to come here and tell you about this."

Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., explained that he felt "you are to be congratulated on this decision."

"If only way we can get anywhere is for men like yourself to come here and testify," Dies said adding that testimony of still-active communist leaders was "worthless."

Britain Denies She Urged Nazis To Attack Soviet

LONDON—(INS)—The British ministry of information today flatly denied the truth of a dispatch inferring that Great Britain had attempted to incite Nazi Germany against Soviet Russia.

The denial was prompted by a story declaring that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany, on his recent trip to Moscow, played for Soviet Premier V. M. Molotov a phonograph record of an alleged conversation between Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler and British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson.

This conversation, it was asserted, betrayed British hopes of German action against Russia. By playing it for Russian ears, the dispatch said, Von Ribbentrop "clinched" the Russo-German agreement.

In connection with the whole report, the ministry authorized this statement:

"There was never any conversation in which Henderson urged Hitler to attack Russia."

It was understood that the British denial had been transmitted to Moscow.

ARRESTED AGAIN

Former Loan Company Official Faces 3 New Charges.

ASHLAND — Arrested earlier this week on charges of forgery and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, Ray S. Reinhardt, 35, former manager of the Ashland branch of the Mansfield Provident Loan company, was arrested for a second time yesterday by deputy sheriffs on three additional charges.

The new charges accuse Reinhardt of embezzling $8,198.69, forging a promissory note of $300, and forging another promissory note of $275, officials said.

Arraigned before Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson, Reinhardt waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $2,000.

Bar Drops Drive For Courthouse, Urges Elevators

Temporarily abandoning their campaign for a new courthouse, members of the Richland County Bar association today asked the county commissioners to install an elevator in the old courthouse.

Presented by Atty. Louis Brucker, the resolution requesting an elevator was passed unanimously by the bar association at its meeting Friday.

The resolution for an elevator also was included in a resolution submitted to the commissioners last year by the lawyers, but commissioners took no action on the matter, saying there was no money available.

It was estimated then that the installation would cost from $8,000 to $10,000.

Bar association members pointed out that the wood stairs in the courthouse are dangerous and difficult for elderly people to climb.

'Peace' Offer Final One, Germany Says.

BERLIN—Germany will fight the war to a finish with every weapon and every means necessary to ensure victory if Great Britain and France reject the Russo-German Peace overture, Nazi informants said today.

It was said authoritatively that the joint German-Russian declaration at Moscow that it was time to call off the war, constituted a final peace offer, and that Adolf Hitler would not, unless the situation changed, send any formal direct bid to the allied powers.

If the allied governments wanted any points cleared up, it was said, they could obtain the information from their ambassadors at Moscow.

Informants emphasized, however, that there could be no questioning of the division of Poland between Germany and Russia. That, they said, was not a point for negotiation.

Despite the immediate firm statement in official quarters in London and Paris that the Russo-German overture was totally inacceptable, Nazis professed not to believe that official rejection was certain.

"We ask Britain and France to think again," an authoritative source said. "One can not imagine governments or responsible individuals in London and Paris rejecting this offer when they have had time to give more consideration to the tremendous historical implications of the agreement signed in Moscow."

'Twins' Shine In Win

Frye, Ganni Account For Entire Total as Onondagas Romp on Madison Field.

By CHARLES MARTIN

CRESTLINE high's "touchodwn twins" gave nearly 2,000 rain-soaked spectators an idea of how they perform under the floodlights at Madison high stadium last night.

That pair, Robert Frye and Capt. Phil Ganni, put on a scoring demonstration that left the gathering somewhat bewildered as they personally accounted for all the points to enable their team to register a one-sided 31 to 0 triumph over the Madison Rams.

* * *

With Frye, who punched through the Madison eleven with terrific effectiveness, pacing the attack, the Onondagas tallied at least one touchdown in every period to remain in the ranks of the state's unbeaten and untied high school football teams.

* * *

It was victory No. 3 for the invaders—and it was a satisfying one for the Crestliners who squared accounts for the whipping administered by the Rams in the neighboring city last fall.

Frye, who pushed over four of the markers, proved to be the Crestline team's principal threat. He turned in the longest run of the day by zig-zagging his way 70 yards for his club's final score in the fourth frame.

Coach Al Fendrick's green-uniformed outfit, which chalked up two first downs in the opening half, failed to penetrate inside the Crestline 10-yard stripe until the fading minutes of the tussle. Then Madison recovered a Crestline fumble on the winner's one-foot line, but a penalty nullified the break.

Crestline pushed up and down the gridiron during the initial

30 Dirt Track Stars Bring Fast Mounts To City Oval Sunday

THERE'LL be about 30 guys out for blood at the Fairground Sunday when some 30 full-size racing jobs rock into the first turn in Mansfield's first dirt track championship auto race in years.

They'll be out for blood because points won in this race count in the national AAA ratings, which qualify a driver for the Decoration day classic at Indianapolis—and the dirt track drivers who don't hope to hit the bricks you can count on one finger.

Then there's a little matter of last Sunday's race at Columbus—a couple of boys were ridden right off the track on one of the turns. And you can bet they'll be doing the riding this week.

Unusual interest will center on the time trials which are slated to begin at 10:30 because each of the drivers will be gunning for the pole position and the chance to get away first in the jockeying at the initial turn.

Following the time trials there will be four elimination races to select the nine fastest cars. Cars not qualifying for the 25-lap finale will then run in a consolation race, with the finale scheduled for 2:30 or 3 o'clock.

Members of the Ohio Auto Racing association, sponsors of the event, stated this morning that there was a possibility that speed records for the half mile might be broken if rains subside.

Mansfield Sophomores Hang Up Third Victory

Playing under adverse weather conditions, the Mansfield high school sophomores defeated the Alliance reserves, 6 to 0, in Alliance yesterday. It was the third straight victory for the junior Tygers, who outplayed the hosts all the way on the muddy field.

Ex-Tiger Aids Sophomores In Easy Triumph

Hallabrin Among Stars as Varsity Turns Out 48-0 Win Over Freshman.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A couple of versatile sophomores were waging lively duels with two seasoned veterans today for starting jobs at quarterback and right end on the Ohio State gridiron squad.

Charley Anderson, giant right end from Massillon, and Jack Graf, strike-throwing quarterback from Upper Arlington, both yearlings, nearly stole the show in a 70-minute scrimmage game yesterday.

* * *

Playing on the second varsity eleven, the two sure-footed, sure-handed sophomores figured in two smooth pass plays for touchdowns. Their all-around exhibition and fiery spirit sharpened their bids for the No. 1 positions now held by Don Scott, junior quarterback from Canton, and Frank Clair, senior right end from Hamilton.

* * *

Scott and Clair also had their moments of glory, as two varsity elevens romped over reserve outfits, 48 to 0.

Fullback John Hallabrin, Mansfield; Halfback Dick Fisher, Columbiana, and Tackle Jim Daniell, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., helped lift the sophomore torch high for the second eleven. After the first team was held to seven points in 20 minutes, the second gang came in and rolled up three touchdowns in the same length of time. The first squad, sparked by Scott and Johnny Rabb, veteran fullback, later pushed over three more touchdowns against the tiring reserves.

The scrimmage was marred by a leg injury to Charley Maag, varsity tackle from Sandusky, who had to be carried from the field. An X-ray later showed nothing more than a bad bruise that may sideline Charley for a few days. Jim Langhurst, ace No. 1 fullback, remained in University hospital, taking no chances against full recovery of a leg infection.

MICHAELS HITS 615

Henry Michaels of the Brass Finishing club, Ohio Brass league, established the individual scoring pace at the Meder alleys last night. Michaels rolled a 615.

Massillon Whips Warren Club, 33-0

Massillon, victor over Mansfield, 73 to 0, last week, continued its march toward its fifth straight state title in Warren last night when it walloped the host team, 33 to 0. Although held to one touchdown in the first half, the Tigers completely outplayed Warren, registering 14 first downs to one for the home town club. Warren never reached midfield.

A feature of the game was George Slusser's 70-yard run for a touchdown in the final period.

Cincy's Scrubs Are Good, Too

Grissom Hurls Reserves to 2-1 Win Over Pirates.

(By Associated Press)

Amid all the jubilation of the Cincinnati Reds, somebody forgot to shut off the ignition.

With their National League pennant clinched Thursday, the Reds played their scrub team against the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday and won, 2-1.

That eccentric elbower, Lefty Lee Grissom, scattered seven hits and knocked home one of the Cincinnati runs with a triple.

The only regular Red to start was Frank (Buck) McCormick, ambitious to acquire an endurance record. He was relieved in the third, the first time he has missed a single inning at first base in two years.

In the only other National League firing, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Bees divided a doubleheader, insuring the Dodgers of a berth in the first division and freezing out the New York Giants.

Tom Earley won the first game for Boston, 2-1, on four-hit pitching. He had a no-hitter until the seventh. Seven-hit hurling by Hugh Casey in the nightcap won, 7-1, for the Dodgers, who were helped by four Boston errors.

Cleveland swept a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 3-0, in the sole American League competition and took a firmer grip on third place.

Whippets' String Cut By Ashland

Querymen Lose First N. C. O. Tilt by Margin of Point Before 2,000 In Rain.

SHELBY—Shelby high's hopes for another undefeated season were blasted when Ashland high registered a 7 to 6 victory here under the arcs at Skiles field last night before some 2,000 fans. It was the opening North Central Ohio conference game for both clubs.

* * *

It marked the first time the Whippets have been beaten since 1937 and the setback halted a 13-game undefeated streak. Two ties were the only blemishes over the 13-game period.

* * *

Shelby jumped into the lead in the third period, but Ashland staged an 83-yard touchdown drive in the fourth quarter to knot the score and then Bush converted the extra point to give Ashland the decision. A Puglisi-to-Mumaw pass scored the touchdown.

Coach Bill Query's proteges, with three minutes remaining in the game, staged another goalward drive but Mumaw halted the threat by intercepting a Shelby pass on the Ashland five. Shelby opened the unsuccessful march from its own 25-yard stripe.

Ashland had a threat stopped in the first period after placing a cleat on the Shelby 10-yard line. McNabb made the threat possible by recovering a blocked Shelby punt on the Whippets' 27.

The only other threat was staged by Shelby in the third when it reached the winners' 10 yard line before losing the ball on downs. Shelby chalked up eight first downs, while Ashland registered 10.

Supplies Meet Richwood Club

McMullen Sends Charges Against Team Beaten Only Once In Two Years.

NOT easily frightened by reputations, Coach Earl McMullen's Automotive Supplies will attempt to register their second straight victory of the new season Sunday when they line up against the touted Richwood Merchants at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m.

Rated as one of the stronger semi-pro clubs in the Columbus area, the Richwood gridsters lug a record marked by only one defeat in two years to the East Mansfield athletic plant.

* * *

A defeat by Portsmouth and a tie are the only marks on the Richwood club's record.

* * *

With the mistakes committed in the opener remedied, Coach McMullen expects the Supplies to make a more impressive showing Sunday, although the Mansfield team was not exactly unimpressive in the inaugural.

The Supplies showed considerable power for a small team when they punched out a 21 to 0 victory over the Akron O'Neils. An alert line and passes were responsible for the victory.

McMullen expects his running game to function more effectively. With George Mays, Joe Miller, Al Schwaner and Harper Au, just to mention a few, available, the Supplies boast of a number of fine runners.

The blocking that the Supplies need to increase the effectiveness of the running game has been supplied by workouts this week, McMullen believes.

* * *

Two new players will make their bow in Automotive Supply uniforms Sunday. The newcomers are Bill Riser, late of the powerhouse Massillon high clubs, and Ed Zediker of Mansfield high. Both are lineemn.

Business Manager Fred Rizzo announced today that bleachers are being built to provide more comfortable facilities for patrons.

Finds Reds Big, Happy Family

By GAYLE TALBOT

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Perhaps the most important weapon the Cincinnati Reds will carry into the World Series against the powerful Yankees next week is an exceptionally strong team spirit.

This isn't the old salad dressing. This club really is a harmonious unit. The players are fond of each other and of their quiet but strict manager, Bill McKechnie. I don't recall having seen a ball team that appeared to be so totally devoid of personal animosities and jealousies.

* * *

The other night, after Paul Derringer had pitched the clinching victory over St. Louis, Bucky Walters grabbed him around the neck and said, sincerely:

* * *

"Boy, all I hope is that I'm as good a pitcher as you are some day."

"Nuts," Derringer replied. "Stop that stuff. You're a greater pitcher right now than I ever was."

So help me, they argued about it for 10 minutes—Walters, who had pitched 27 victories and Derringer, who had just notched his 25th. They didn't reach a decision, except to agree that Junior Thompson was going to be a greater pitcher than either of them.

It's this team spirit and feeling of personal loyalty that is likely to make the Reds a tougher outfit to beat than the odds of 3 to 1 against them would indicate.

Ival Goodman, the club's crack right-fielder, who blasted 30 homeruns last year and who led the National League in triples both in 1935 and 1936, confesses that he quit trying to hit for distance this season because he thought he could help the club more by punching the ball straight-away.

"I had a nice homerun record last year," he explains, "but we finished fourth. All right, we won the pennant this year, and maybe I helped a little in spots."

Harry Craft, the team's fine second-year center fielder, gives Goodman most of the credit for the reputation he's gained as one of the best fly hawks in the business. Their teamwork can be pretty to watch.

* * *

For instance: In the deciding game Thursday, when Joe Medwick hit that terrific double against the top of the center-field wall, some 390 feet from the plate. It was the seventh inning and the Reds were leading by only one run. But Craft didn't play it safe. He went right against the fence and tried to spear the agate.

* * *

It clanged against the boards and came rocketing back as Medwick turned second. How Goodman got there I don't know, but he took that ball on first bounce and pegged Ducky out at third. That play probably saved the game and won the flag, as the next three Cards hit safely. Asked why he took such a hair-raising chance, Craft said: "Why, I knew Goody would be there to catch it if I didn't."

'TWINS' STAR IN WIN

stanza but had to wait until near the end of the quarter before Ganni, a will-o'-the-wisp ball toter, skirted his right end and outran the Madison secondary to gallop 68 yards down the sidelines to give the Onondagas a lead they never relinquished.

The Rams, playing without the services of Louis Danison and Capt. Walter Heichel at the opening whistle, stood up well against the pulverizing plunges of Crestline backfield in the first chapter, but once Merle Huston's vaunted running attack began to function, Mentor Fendrick sent 27 athletes into the affray in an effort to stop the onslaught.

Although rain hampered the attacks of both aggregations after the intermission, the visitors took advantage of a couple of breaks to pile up an advantage that was never threatened.

After Ganni spotted his team to a 6-0 lead in the first period Frye came to the front midway in the second stanza and he stayed there until the finish.

Frye gave Crestline to a 12 to 0 margin in the second by tearing through tackle and racing 54 yards into pay dirt. The invaders, who possess one of the finest running attacks seen among high school grid machines this year, drove 52 yards for the third touchdown. Frye climaxed the goalward drive by smashing over center for 19 yards to score.

The Crestline machine scored the fourth marker after a swarm of the Onondagas smothered Doug DeNero under on an attempted punt on the Madison 25. Frye picked up 24 yards on his first try and drove through center on the next play into pay dirt.

A highlight of Frye's 70-yard dash for the last score was the brilliant blocking provided by his teammates. Frye grabbed the punt on his 30 and after weaving through practically the entire Madison club, only one man stood between him and the goal. And Ganni threw a spectacular block to clear the path.

The only extra point was scored on a lefthand aerial from Frye to Ganni. Frye attempted the other four points from placement but was unable to send the ball through the uprights.

* * *

Fendrick sent in the second string late in the fourth period and it more than held its own. A Madison punt got away from Ganni late in the period and several of the Rams fell on the ball on the one-foot line and it looked like Madison might score. But Referee Bob Jamison called a slugging penalty on a Ram player in midfield and the ball was called back to that spot.

* * *

The Crestline attack ran into several setbacks in the first quarter when three 15-yard penalties were stepped off by Jamison. Crestline collected nine first downs while Madison was adding up four.

The invaders scored a touchdown in the early minutes of the game, but one of those penalties was called against Crestline on the play. Madison halted a Crestline threat in the second stanza when it took the ball on downs on its own nine.

Incidentally, only two forward passes were completed last night. DeNero made connections with Bob Matthes for the Ram's aerial, while the Frye-to-Ganni pass for the point after the final touchdown was the only one made by Crestline.

Texas Christian Falls Before UCLA

Some of the big leaguers got away to a red-hot start against A-1 competition yesterday and last night. Among them were the Texas Christian Lonhorns, who weren't so hot without Davey O'Brien and Co., and dropped a 6-2 to U. C. L. A.; Tennessee, which took it easy in trouncing North Carolina State, 13-0; Catholic U., which surprised South Carolina, 12-0, and Georgetown and Temple, which tied up in a pitcher's duel before the Hoyas came out on top, 3-2.

In the "breather" opposition department, Syracuse socked Clarkson, 12-0. Other scores included Duquesne's 31-0 waltz over Illinois Wesleyan and a 12-6 decision by Drake over Kansas U.

Bellville Trounces Fredericktown, 33-6

Butler Yields to Mt. Gilead By 13 to 6 Score; Loudonville Loses to New London.

FREDERICKTOWN—Coach Royd Hodge's Bellville high football machine chalked up its third straight triumph of the season by walloping Fredericktown, 33 to 6, here yesterday afternoon. In registering the three wins Bellville had previously beaten Centerburg and Granville.

The Blue Jays face another tough assignment when they invade Loudonville for a tussle with the Red Birds next week. Bellville scored 70 points in the three games.

Howard Hamilton led the Bellville touchdown parade by crossing into pay dirt three times. Don Palm added one on a 70-yard return of a punt and Dick Keiser accounted for the other score. Hamilton also added the three extra points.

The Blue Jays tallied once in the first, twice in the second and added a touchdown in each of the final two quarters. Fredericktown scored its lone marker in the last period.

Bulldogs Threaten Often, But Lose.

BUTLER—Butler high's grid machine is still looking forward to registering its initial win of the season. The Bulldogs came near accomplishing the feat against Mt. Gilead here yesterday, but two bad breaks in the final period gave the invaders a 13 to 6 verdict.

Coach Bob Burgett's gridders, held scoreless in their first two games, broke through with a touchdown in the third stanza, but a pair of fumbles shortly afterwards proved disastrous.

* * *

Jack Wilson, Bulldogs' quarterback, gave his team a 6 to 0 lead by dashing 62 yards off tackle to score standing up.

* * *

Mt. Gilead's first break came early in the fourth period when it recovered a fumble on the Butler 15. Bachelor tossed a seven-yard pass to Penant to tie the score at 6-6. Mt. Gilead recovered the next kickoff on the Butler 25 and four plays later another Bachelor-to-Penant aerial spelled defeat for the Bulldogs.

Butler, which piled up 14 first downs to Mt. Gilead's nine, threatened seriously twice in the first period. Once the Bulldogs drove to the Mt. Gilead two, and again to the 10.

Loudonville Bows To New London, 6-0.

NEW LONDON—The Red Birds of Loudonville high suffered their first defeat of the season here yesterday when they dropped a 6 to 0 decision to the New London high Wildcats.

New London, after battling through a scoreless first period, settled down and drove 40 yards for the lone score midway in the second chapter. Bilton climaxed the drive by slashing over from the Loudonville four.

Loudonville's lone threat came in the second quarter when it penetrated to the New London 15-yard line. Play in the second half was in midfield. The final chapter was played in the rain.

The time New London scored was the only time it threatened seriously. The Wildcats had six first downs to Loudonville's three.

It was Loudonville's second game of the season. The Red Birds battled Danville to a 13-13 tie last week.

Future Tyger Foes Fare Poorly, Only One Wins

Only one of Mansfield high's future gridiron foes which were in action last night manufactured a victory. The lone exception was Ashland, which defeated Shelby, 7 to 6. New Philadelphia, the Tygers' opponent next week, battled the strong Lorain club to a 7 to 7 tie.

One of the major upsets of the new season saw Sandusky knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Toledo Waite, the score being 27 to 6. Akron Kenmore bowed to Akron St. Vincent's, 21 to 6. Canton McKinley, another future foe, plays Akron South today, while the Tygers invade Cambridge.

"Thunder Afloat."

Those afraid that European nations may come over here and whip us, will do well to see "Thunder Afloat," for it takes a little known chapter of our history and dramatizes it. In 1918 when the most modern submarines were sent to the Atlantic seaboard to terrorize American shipping, they were put to rout by wooden subchasers, manned by untrained men. The picture, which stars Wallace Beery, with Chester Morris and Virginia Grey in romantic supporting roles, was made with the co-operation of the United States navy at Annapolis and Chesapeake Bay. It opens today at the Madison theater for four days.

"The Old Maid."

A most unusual triangle is the theme of "The Old Maid," which the Ohio offers for its new program, starting today. The three points of the triangle are two sisters and the child of one of them. Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins wage a psychological battle over the illegitimate child of the "old maid," played by Miss Davis, as well as fighting for the man they both love but which neither marries. The novel, written by Edith Wharton, was very popular, while the stage play, adapted from the book by Zoe Akins, won the Pulitzer prize several years ago. In the cast are George Brent, who plays the man both women love; Jane Bryan, who is the daughter; Donald Crisp, Louise Fazenda, James Stephenson and Jerome Cowan.

"Invitation to Happiness."

A love story of intensely dramatic proportions is told in "Invitation to Happiness," one of the two features booked for the Ritz for Sunday and Monday, and with the two popular stars, Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray. It is a family struggle, that of a wealthy wife against her prize fighter husband. Although she falls in love with him for what he is, she immediately tries to make him over, and therein lies the story. Their son, instead of bringing them closer together, only widens the breach. A comedy-mystery brings the Ritz brothers in "The Gorilla."

"The Ware Case."

Clive Brook, popular over here several years ago and who has not appeared in an American-made film recently, is still busy at the English studios. "The Ware Case," a Gaumont-British film, has Brook in the role of an Englishman who has been born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but who wastes his life and is finally accused of murder. Jane Baxter plays opposite him. "Blondie Takes a Vacation" is another episode in the exciting life of Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumpling. These two films are on the Park bill for the first half of the week, starting Sunday.

"Honolulu."

This M-G-M music-and-dance film has a quartet of stars with high box office rating—Robert Young, Eleanor Powell and George Burns and Gracie Allen. Where Eleanor is, there is bound to be good dancing, and where Gracie is, there is sure to be comedy of the daffiest kind. Miss Powell gives an imitation of Bill Robinson's famous stair-dance and Gracie sings the theme song, "Honolulu!" A Joe Brown comedy, "Flirting With Fate," brings the wide-mouthed comedian to the Majestic for Monday and Tuesday, with Leo Carrillo, Beverly Roberts and Steffi Duna in his support.
